

The Least of These: God, Poverty, and You

A 4-lesson study

No matter where you go in this world, it surrounds you. Sometimes it is painfully visible, demanding a response. Other times its presence is masked, kept hidden from the public. What is it? Poverty. Poverty is a devastating condition that feeds on its victims, making each day an insufferable struggle. But have hope . . . God hears the cries of the poor and has a plan to address their needs. That plan? It's you. And your students. The Least of These is an amazing 4-week study that helps your students see the vital role God has chosen them to play in easing the burden of the poor and needy.

Lesson 1: So Many, So Little

- Objective: The point of the lesson is that your students would understand why poverty exists and begin to increase their awareness of it in their communities and in the world.
- Focus Scripture: Genesis 1:27-30; Genesis 3:17-19; Romans 1:28-32

Lesson 2: Where Is God?

- Objective: The point of the lesson is that your students would understand that God cares both about the poor and your students' attitudes towards the poor.
- Focus Scripture: Exodus 22:25-27; Leviticus 25:35-37; Deuteronomy 15:7-11

Lesson 3: Somebody Do Something

- Objective: The point of the lesson is that your students would understand that God's plan to address the needs of the poor on this earth is for all Christ-followers to willingly reach out to the needy.
- Focus Scripture: Matthew 5:42; Matthew 25:31-46; 1 John 3:17-19

Lesson 4: The Hope

- Objective: The point of the lesson is that your students would understand that the ease of suffering promised by God is for those who believe in Him, and that this understanding would motivate them to living out their faith in a way that points others to Christ.
- Focus Scripture: 2 Corinthians 4:16-18; Revelation 7:9-17
